As stated in our last newsletter, the Floyd Curl Entrance to the Greehey Campus will be closing December 15th for the construction of the South Texas Research Facility (STRF) so that the major construction can proceed in the safest manner for the contractors and the University Community (see attached map). This closure is scheduled to remain in effect until December 31, 2010; however, after February 2009 access to parking lots will be accessible from Floyd Curl. Please bear in mind, as with any major construction project, the final date is subject to change based on many factors such as weather. In addition, Lot #16 and Lot #19 will still be accessible from Research Blvd.

We understand that these changes in traffic may be confusing. We are working with Vaughan to minimize them and ensure that they are marked properly to assist you in safely navigating them. You can do your part by slowing down and exercising due care and caution as you go through the construction area. We will do our best to announce major changes, however, please understand that traffic conditions can change rapidly during this project, just like they can on the highway. It is everyone’s responsibility to pay attention and adjust to the conditions of the road.

If you have questions or need more information, please contact Lt. Michael Bleier at 567-6821 or e-mail him at bleier@uthscsa.edu.

Thank you,
